Glovista Investments

Glovista is primarily an Emerging Markets Equities fund. Dennis Tracey and Darshan Bhatt presented Glovista's strategy in Emerging Markets. They take a global macro top down approach to investing in the 23 emerging market countries.

They reported that as of 2014 more than 50% of global GDP is going to be in the 23 emerging market countries. Also, that currently 14% of equity income comes from Emerging Markets and that should increase going forward, thus funds should have at least 14% allocated to the sector.

They highlighted the reasons for their continued success:

- Breath and experience of the investment team
- Their global macro approach to picking the right currencies and right countries out of the 23 to invest in

The board asked questions about the strategy and the liquidity of the held assets. Glovista has no minimum investment, fee's of 75 basis points and daily liquidity.

Beirne Wealth Consulting

John and John Oliver Beirne presented the performance of the firefighters fund thru July 31, 1014.

They presented some charts that indicate that the market is high by many metrics, however see no immediate reason to sell or raise our cash position.

They recommend an increased exposure to the Emerging Markets going forward.

They indicated that they may be looking at recommending a change to the Neuberger Berman Mid-Cap fund. It has been underperforming the index for a while and feel that a change may be recommended in the future.
